If you have a website created by web-sites4.eu it will be in the style of CMS (Content Management System). This provides a lot of functionality for the owner and enables you to login from any browser that has internet access to update your site yourself using an online html editor. The purpose of brill.info is to help you with updating your site by offering some guidance as to how to do the basics.

Once web-sites4.eu has created your site what happens next? Well, this website will give you a better understanding of how things work along with some useful tips to improve your site.

You do not even need to have your own website to benefit from the information you will find here! Have a look at the link to free software that may provide you with all the applications you may ever need to operate your computer.
